ARTHUR'S STORY

Applied for Engineering (H100)

Offers from Cambridge, Durham & Nottingham.

Arthur had a passion for Engineering because of hobbies held from a young age. He wanted the very best institution to help him take his passion further; Cambridge looked like the best option because it's internationally renowned for it's teaching. At 7 applications per place, it's a heavily competitive course so he felt like he needed some help.

Max was Arthur's first tutor. Max has a masters in Engineering from Jesus College, Cambridge. In his time there he also helped countless students with their academia. Together, Max and Arthur worked on his personal statement. Arthur was able to have unlimited redrafts so he could tweak as much as he wanted with Max's assistance.

Oliver was Arthur's second tutor. Oliver graduated with a double first from Cambridge and has been tutoring students since his IGCSE's. Oliver's role to Arthur was to prepare him for the ENGAA exam; a tough exam which heavily tests prospective student's Maths and Physics skills. Arthur felt fairly confident with Part A, but the advanced Part B section was something he felt anxious about. Oliver provided Max with many past papers and worked through the first few papers with Max to ease him into the test. Eventually, Max did a practice paper as homework, then Oliver targeted his weakest areas so that Max would gain the most marks he could from the tuition.

Christina was Arthur's final tutor. Christina is an international student at Cambridge. She has a double first in Engineering with a specialisation in Civil, Structural and Environmental Engineering. Christina arranged for mock interviews with four different Engineering tutors who would each focus on a separate topic; Mathematics, Electrical Engineering, Structures and Mechanics, and Arthur's Personal Statement. Each tutor gave highly detailed written feedback after each 30 minute interview. Before Arthur moved onto the next interview, Christina worked through the feedback given by each tutor. Arthur used these comments to improve his interviewing skill - this worked out to Arthur's favour because, when it came to the real Cambridge interview day, he was able to use all the experience and nail his interview!

"The interview practice gave me valuable experience that reading just can't give!"
